BIG CHICAGO EXPLOSION.

World's Largest Grain Elevator Destroyed.

(Reuter's Service.)

Chicago, March 20.

An explosion, due to ignition of grain dust, wrecked the world's largest grain elevator, shattering the windows of neighbouring towns. One person was killed and four are missing. Half a million bushels of grain were destroyed. The damage is estimated at $600,000.

GREEK TROOPS CALLED UP.

Fresh Trouble in Anatolia.

Athens, March 20.

The 1913, 1914 and 1915 classes have been called to the colours to reinforce the Greek troops in Anatolia. Crowds gathered in the streets cheering Greece to war.

The King, in a message to the Greeks, declares that the Turkish Nationalists are again attempting to overthrow the situation established by the Treaty of Sevres and are concentrating against the Greeks, and says reinforcements are necessary to protect the Greek populations and secure definitive pacification of the Orient, which Greece is pursuing jointly with the Allies.

A Turkish Statement.

Paris, March 18.

General Gouraud is to leave on March 22 for Constantinople, where he will confer with General Felle, the Allied High Commissioner, and proceed to Beyruth after visiting the Sultan and the Grand Vizier.

A despatch from Constantinople announces that Turkey is very satisfied with the London agreement between the Turkish and French and Italian representatives, solving the questions of Cilicia, Syria and Anatolia. Turkey states that the last British standpoint concerning Constantinople, the Dardanelles, Armenia and Kurdistan is cleared up. Consequently, every question between Turkey and the Allies tended to a satisfying solution for both parties. The only contested point preventing Near Eastern peace is the contest between Turkey and Greece about Smyrna and the Thracian questions.—Vale.

HONOURING THE CREW OF WRECKED SUBMARINE.

Atlantic Fleet at an Impressive Ceremony.

London, March 21.

A moving ceremony at sea a hundred miles from the Scilly Isles took place yesterday afternoon, when 14,000 officers and men of the Atlantic Fleet returning from the spring cruise participated in a solemn service in memory of the comrades of the K5 (which was wrecked in January). An Admiralty announcement describes how a force of six battleships, two battle-cruisers, six light cruisers, 17 destroyers and an aircraft-carrier, under the orders of Vice-Admiral Sir Sidney Fremantle, approached the scene of the disaster in an imposing formation. After the Fleet had stopped engines as far as typical seagoing weather would admit, the Colours were lowered to half-mast and a memorial service was held aboard the flagship Revenge. The rest of the Fleet held funeral services, at which well-known hymns were sung, an aeroplane meantime circling around the Fleet, despite difficult flying conditions. A party of a hundred seamen on the Revenge fired the three customary volleys, the Last Post sounded, and "Land of Hope and Glory" was played as the officers and men left the quarter-deck. The ceremony terminated with the hoisting of the Colours, the Fleet resumed its cruising dispositions and proceeded up Channel homewards.

INTERNATIONAL COMMUNICATIONS.

Some Important Decisions.

Barcelona, March 20.

The Communications Conference has adopted Article VII of the Draft Convention dealing with restrictions on liberty in transit and providing for the maintenance of the principle of freedom in transit without affecting measures of national security which each State may need to take in emergencies.

Article X, abrogating all previous international agreements incompatible with the proposed Convention, was referred to a sub-commission. Some countries favoured the preservation of existing Treaties alongside the Convention.

Article VIII, providing for the maintenance of the utmost freedom of transit in wartime compatible with the rights and duties of belligerents and neutrals, was also referred to a Committee.

GERMAN DISARMAMENT.

Berlin, March 20.

The Reichstag has passed a Disarmament Bill providing that if the statutes or the conduct of an Association indicate that its purpose conflicts with Articles 177 and 178 of the Peace Treaty it will be dissolved by the Government or Federal State concerned, failing which the Imperial Government is empowered to act.

FRENCH MILITARY SERVICE.

Paris, March 18.

The Army Committee has adopted the eighteen months' military service system, to apply after the period on which the 1922 are called up.—Vale.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS.

Two Felt in Hongkong.

Two earthquake shocks were felt in Hongkong on Saturday—one in the afternoon and another in the evening. They were felt by several residents. The Director of the Royal Observatory (Mr. T. F. Claxton) issues the following statement in relation thereto:—

Two earthquake shocks were recorded at the Observatory on Saturday, the 19th. The first commenced at 4h.20m.4s. p.m. with tremors of 1/2 inch amplitude. These tremors lasted until 21m.0, when the needle made large excursions backwards and forwards on the sheet, finally going out of range to westward at 21m.3. (A westerly movement of the needle indicates an easterly movement of the instrument pillar). By the time the needle had been adjusted to the centre of the sheet (at 23m.0) the disturbance had finished.

The second shock commenced at 7h. 4m. 4s. p.m., with small tremors which continued until 5m. 0. At this time oscillations of 0.6 inch amplitude commenced, dying away at 5m. 6.

The maximum traverse of the recording needle is 4 inches which, with the present adjustments, represents a horizontal earth movement of 0.043 inch. It is by no means certain however how much of the movement is a horizontal thrust, and how much a tilting of the ground. Nor can we be certain how much of the movement of the needle is due to the vibration of pendulum itself, when once set in motion. It has been known for many years that the duration of the preliminary tremors on a seismogram is a measure of the distance of the origin and the exact relationship is still being investigated.

According to Omori's formula, the origin of Saturday's earthquake should be about 300 kilometres from Hongkong. Its bearing cannot be determined from the records of one pendulum.

The Captain of the s.s. Nankin reports that he felt this earthquake when off the Lamrocks in Latitude 23 deg. 9' N. and Longitude 117 deg. 13' E. at 4.20 p.m. The ship was shaken rather badly for five seconds. Another vessel in Latitude 23 deg. 31' N. and Longitude 117 deg. 30' E. felt a shock at 4.21 p.m. and also at 7.5 p.m.

BOSTOCK'S CIRCUS.

A Fine Show.

During the week-end, Bostock's popular circus has been drawing large crowds, which have been delighted with the splendid shows given. The huge marquee, accommodating this clever combination is located in Kowloon, quite close to the ferry, and is therefore conveniently placed for both Kowloon and Hongkong residents. There are performing animals which have been wonderfully trained, and clowns who keep the audience in roars of laughter with their funny business. Then mention must be made of the Arkos Trio, who do thrilling acts on the trapeze, as does Mile. Lorenzoni. Maximo, a loose-wire walker is well known to the Colony, and he is better than ever. Other items go to make up a most attractive performance.

The Circus gives nightly performances at 9.15, and a matinee is announced for Wednesday.

MUSKETRY.

Defence Corps Competition.

The Engineer Company H. V. D. C. fired Part II of the Annual Musketry Course at King's Park Range yesterday.

The Company put up three cups for the best three aggregate scores. The first was won by Sapper Cornwell with a score of 96, the second by Lieut. R. Melville Smith (93), while Sappers, Richards, Brewer, and Woolley tied for third prize with a score of 91 each.

MATCH AT TAIKOO.

An enjoyable match took place on Taikoo range on Sunday, between teams representing Jardine, Matheson and Company and Taikoo, over the range 200, 500 and 600 yards, under Bleyse conditions. Taikoo won by 139 points. The highest score for Taikoo was obtained by Mr. Swan, who recorded 132 points, while for Jardine, Matheson and Co. Mr. Shaw registered the highest total—124 points.

BANVARD COMPANY.

The Theatre Royal was crowded to overflowing on Saturday night, when the Banvard Musical Comedy Company gave a repeat performance of "Peaches and Cream," described as "a musical something-to-laugh-at." It was a very bright revue, full of sparkling numbers, and encores were frequent. All the artists were in top form whilst the chorus kept things going with their singing and dancing. A special word should be said of the Jazz Orchestra, in which connection a tribute is due to the conductor, Mr. Judge Robinson, for his very sympathetic accompanying. The Company will be here for two nights more. The attraction for to-night is "Pums for Pooklog," which is one of the Company's very best pieces.

Auditors.—The accounts have been audited by Messrs. H. Percy Smith, F.O.A., and A. R. Lowe, F.C.A., who, being eligible, offer themselves for re-election.

CRIMINAL SESSIONS.

To-day's Cases.

His Lordship Mr. Justice H. J. Gompertz presided this morning over the March Criminal Sessions.

MURDER CASE.

Wong Fat and three others were arraigned on the charge of murdering another Chinese on 25th January at Sheung Sha Wan. The Attorney-General, the Hon. Mr. J. H. Kemp, prosecuted, whilst Mr. Drummond instructed by Mr. Bruton defended.

The following jury were empanelled:—Messrs. F. Fisher, S. G. Fenton, J. H. Donnithorne (foreman) A. Leon, L. O. Barton, C. P. Archer and W. Morley. Mr. W. Morley applied for exemption. He said that Mr. Tarrant was away and he was doing his work.

In reply to the Chief Justice, Mr. Morley said there was only one European in the office and that was himself. Mr. Tarrant would be away for eight or nine months.

The Chief Justice remarked that he could not exempt Mr. Morley for eight or nine months.

Mr. Morley replied that he would not need exemption for such a period. He would get into the work within a month.

Exemption was refused.

The Attorney-General, in outlining the facts, said the prisoners were charged with the murder of a cloth hawker at a place between the Sheung Chun and Tai Po roads on January 9th last at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. In this case, as in any other case of a similar nature, the evidence was circumstantial. In other words, no witness saw the murder when it took place.

The jury had to infer the guilt of the prisoners from various circumstances. Two of the witnesses who would give evidence would tell the Court that they arrived at the place where the murder took place, shortly after the murder. There was no direct evidence of any witness as to who the murderer was. In cases where the evidence was circumstantial the jury had to apply the ordinary rules of inference in every day life. If there was any doubt as to the guilt of the prisoners, the jury were bound to give them the benefit of the doubt. The second point that the Attorney-General wished to mention was the motive. Apparently the motive was robbery. The cloth hawker was carrying a certain quantity of clothing and a certain quantity of change. It was a very small motive, but with such a class of persons as the prisoners it was an important motive. The third point was that a number of men were present for taking part in the crime or present with the intention of helping, if necessary, then every one of them present was guilty of murder. The Crown could not prove who actually killed the deceased. It was not necessary for the Crown to prove which particular man killed the deceased. The four prisoners were arrested in the village. On the first prisoner was found the purse of the deceased. The second prisoner rented previously the house where the murder took place. The third prisoner had a key that fitted the lock of the house.

RETURNED BANISHEE.

Before Mr. Justice J. R. Wood, a Chinese was charged with returning from banishment.

He pleaded guilty.

His Lordship:—In 1919 you were deported for ten years and the last time you were deported you returned to the Colony and were sentenced by the Police Magistrate. This, therefore, is your second conviction. The sentence of the Court is that you will be imprisoned for two years with hard labour.

CONSTABLE CHARGED WITH PERJURY.

Tang Chu, a Chinese constable, was charged with committing Perjury on January 22nd in the Police Court, before Mr. R. E. Lindsell.

The prisoner pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Dyer Ball prosecuted.

The following jury were empanelled:—Messrs. D. M. Goodall (foreman), F. Andrade, D. Austin, H. Gittens, H. Best, I. E. Elias, and Li Po Sang.

Mr. Dyer Ball said the case was started on January 19th before Mr. R. E. Lindsell, the Magistrate, in the Police Court. The plaintiff, Chan Lum Po, brought a charge of stealing a roll of silk against a man called Tai. The man who brought the charge was manager of the Lai Wa Company, and the man who was charged with stealing was accountant of the Wing Lok Yee firm. Tai wanted a piece of grey silk measuring 17 yards valued $50. The prisoner said that he was passing the Lai Wa Company and he heard cries about stealing. He was standing near the doorway. He saw a man, Chen Fat, rushing downstairs. He stopped him near the doorway. He caught him by the coat and the defendant struggled and his coat was torn. The prisoner got him under control, and inside his coat was found a piece of silk. He took him to the Police Station. The prisoner said he asked the defendant where he got the silk. The reply was:—"I did not steal it." Mr. Lindsell discharged the defendant.

Prisoner was found guilty of giving false evidence and was sentenced to six months' hard labour.

SINN FEINERS ACTIVE.

Seven fires simultaneously occurred on farms in Surrey on the outskirts of London. Large and valuable stacks were burned. The outbreak is attributed to Sinn Fein incendiaries.

Nine stacks on a farm at Bexley, Kent, were also destroyed by fire last night, believed by incendiaries.

An exciting struggle which lasted three hours occurred at Crossbarry, near Bandon, where three hundred Sinn Feiners mined a road and ambushed eight lorries containing police and military. Three lorries were burned, seven soldiers and policemen and four civilians killed, five soldiers, including two officers and a policeman, and several civilians wounded.

The trial of fourteen men and one woman on charges of conspiracy in connection with discoveries of explosives and Sinn Fein documents at Glasgow concluded in the Justiciary Court of Edinburgh. Four were acquitted, the cases against two "not proven," and the remainder sentenced to terms of from twelve months imprisonment to five years penal servitude, including a woman to twelve months imprisonment.

THE PLEBISCITE IN UPPER SILESIA.

There are prospects of fierce collisions between the Poles and Germans during the plebiscite in Upper Silesia to-morrow, to determine the territories and future nationality of an area, which comprises fifteen thousand square miles and two and a half million population. Both sides are conducting a fierce last moment propaganda. The Germans are wonderfully organised, trains bringing up two hundred thousand outvoters from all parts. As an example, three hundred nuns were brought from a convent in Vienna. Both nations contend that their economic future depends upon the rich territory. Allied troops are widely distributed to supervise the plebiscite and maintain peace. The result of the poll is doubtful.

ANGLO-RUSSIAN TRADE.

M. Krassin, interviewed in London, hoped that the test case regarding Russian gold and also two cases regarding the attachment of consignments of timber and potassium brought from England last year would be decided in the English courts next week. He said that pending the decisions all contracts, including even the contract of Armstrong and Whitworth's for repair of Russian locomotives, had to be delayed owing to the risk of attachment, and the Russian locomotives were at present being repaired at Reval or in Germany. M. Krassin declared that despite difficulties of transport, owing to the shortage of fuel, those who asserted that Russia had nothing to export would be surprised before the summer had finished.

A telegram from Reval says that M. Litvinoff, interviewed, hoped that the signature of the trade agreement would lead to Russian and foreign trade, centering on London, but the efficacy of the agreement depended on the goodwill of the British Government. Russia had large stocks of flax, hemp, furs, timber and asbestos awaiting export.

THE ALLIED OCCUPATION.

It is reported from Mulheim-on-Ruhr that Franco-Belgian troops have occupied the western quarter and Speldorf railway station. From Duisburg it is reported that the Allies have occupied the railway station of Oberhausen and locks in the vicinity of the Emischer canal.

With reference to Berlin's cabled messages this morning an official stated there had been no extension of occupation. The only movement yesterday was a movement of troops from two observation posts, whose position was unsatisfactory, to points two kilometres eastward.

RUSSO-POLISH PEACE TREATY.

The final Russo-Polish Peace Treaty was signed at Riga last night, the result of negotiations since November 12. It provides that thirty millions of gold rubles be paid to Poland within a year. Other provisions are largely identical with the preliminary Treaty signed in October. M. Domsak, chief Polish delegate, in a speech said Poland had at length gained independence and hoped she would live on friendly terms with Russia. She would give freedom to all nationalities within her borders. The Diet voted the new Polish constitution.

PROTECTION OF AMERICAN INDUSTRIES.

In the Queen's Club athletics Oxford and Cambridge tied with five events each.

EARLIER TELEGRAMS.

AMERICA AND THE ALLIES.

A huge gathering headed by the American Legion assembled in Madison Square Garden last night as a protest against the meeting referred to in the cable of 1st March.

General Pershing addressed last night's gathering. There was a great demonstration when a procession of mothers, wearing gold stars in recognition of their sons lost in the war, marched in procession to the amphitheatre. Crowds outside listened to impromptu patriotic addresses and the meeting inside passed unanimously a resolution condemning mischievous propaganda and resenting disloyal attempts to breed dissension in America against the Allies. General Pershing said that Americans objected to citizens of foreign birth who attempted to decide American questions for a foreign reason, thus abusing their American citizenship.

A ROCKEFELLER BENEFACTION.

The Rockefeller Foundation has contributed forty-three million francs towards the total of a hundred million francs for new buildings and endowments for the Medical School of the University of Brussels. The new funds will go to establish a training school for nurses in memory of Edith Cavell and Madame Dysage, wife of the well-known Belgian surgeon, who was drowned in the Lusitania.

A PARIS LOAN.

The City of Paris is issuing a new loan of 1,800,000,000 francs for extensive improvements in the transport system, roadways, etc. The loan will probably be of 5 1/2 per cent, taxfree, repayable within sixty years by means of quarterly drawings. There will be 140 prizes yearly, including one prize of a million francs.

RUGBY INTERNATIONAL.

England defeated Scotland in the Rugby International at Edinburgh by 18 points to 9.

Both Wales and Ireland have previously been beaten by England who, by defeating Scotland, secures the Championship.

THE LATE MR. GEORGE JAMIESON.

The late Mr. George Jamieson C.M.G., who was a Director of the British and Chinese Corporation and of the Chinese Central Railways and Yangtze Valley Company, also formerly of the British Consular Service in China, left £12,000.

A LAND OWNERSHIP
TITLE.

Interesting Point in Chinese Law.

His Honour Judge Lobingier of the United States Court at Shanghai has delivered an interesting judgment in an action over the possession of a piece of land brought by the Doong Nyi Benevolent Association against the heirs of Henry S. Grew, who were not represented. Mr. Rodger appeared for plaintiffs. In giving judgment his Honour said—

This is an action to quiet title to a tract of land situated in the International Settlement of Shanghai known as Cadastral lot No. 204. Plaintiff's chairman testifies that plaintiff has been in possession thereof over 50 years without meeting adverse claims, exhibits a deed dated 1868 and a series of tax receipts the earliest of which (Ex. 9) is for 1891.

It appears, however, that on March 19, 1862, the lot in question was registered at the American Consulate in Shanghai in the name of Henry S. Grew and it is to extinguish his claim and those of his heirs and successors that this action is principally brought.

If this land were located within the United States and the plaintiff had occupied it for the time and under the circumstances disclosed in the evidence here produced, a decree would undoubtedly be rendered in plaintiff's favour as having acquired title by adverse possession or, as it is termed in the civil law, prescription. The time required varies in different jurisdictions but in none of them is it as long as plaintiff shows its possession to have been and under the latest congressional enactment on the subject it cannot exceed 22 years even as against those under disability.

But the land is located in China and most writers on international law hold that prescription, as one of the incidents of land tenure, is governed by the lex rei sitae. "This follows," observes Bar, "not, as the popular belief generally goes, as a merely dialectical or merely logical necessity springing from our conception of the law of things or of territorial sovereignty, but as a real necessity, resting upon the inconvenience of any other doctrine."

Now the lex rei sitae, in this case, is the law of China. It is true that the jurisdiction of American courts in China must be exercised "in conformity with the laws of the United States." But so the civil jurisdiction of British courts here is exercised "in conformity with English law" and said courts nevertheless apply the local law to land and its incidents. Including prescription, because, as was declared by Lord Talbot before the middle of the eighteenth century, "the law of nations was part of the law of England." It is equally a part of "the laws of the United States" and we are prepared, accordingly, to apply the Chinese law of prescription to this case.

But here we encounter a new difficulty for our researches disclose that there is no such law. The highest Chinese tribunal has declared—

"A Mandate dated the 10th day of March in the first year of the Republic declares that application of the former law means application of that portion which continues to be in force. Now since the provision contained in the T'ing Code to the effect that claim for further payment or redemption is barred after 30 years was repealed when the Code was revised, it cannot be applied.

"Our existing law has no provision as regards prescription. What is provided in the Draft Civil Code relating to acquisitive prescription as regards ownership and to extinctive prescription as regards the restoration of the right of succession is inapplicable.

"The Civil Code has not yet been promulgated, and, in the absence of express provisions, it is not for the court to say what kinds of rights should be subject to prescription in regard to their acquisition and extinction and when the prescriptive period begins to run and when completed."

It would appear, then, that while there was once a prescriptive law of some kind in China, it has been replaced and that, since those provisions of the proposed Civil Code which are intended to replace it have not come into force, there is now a legal hiatus.

But while we cannot for that reason, adjudicate a title in plaintiff by prescription it does not follow that no relief can be

JOE BECKETT SUED
BY EX-MANAGER.

Sporting Settlement of Money Dispute.

In a sporting spirit a friendly settlement was reached last month in the Chancery Division of the action brought against Joe Beckett, the boxer, by his former manager, Bernard Mortimer.

Under an agreement dated January 14, 1914, Mr. Mortimer claimed £3,904 odd. His counsel, Mr. Clausen, K.C., said that when Beckett was an unknown boxer the plaintiff undertook his training, and the control of his professional life generally, on the footing that when he became a successful pugilist and able to command large purses, half of them should go to Mr. Mortimer for seven years.

TWO FIGHTS IN DISPUTE. His lordship, said counsel for the plaintiff at the outset, would have to decide what were the exact rights in regard to purses, and whether, at the time the agreement was entered into, Beckett appreciated the meaning of it.

While Beckett was winning small purses Mr. Mortimer, with great liberality, did not insist on taking half of them, and let him keep them all. The first big fight at which the plaintiff took a share of the purse was that with Goddard early in 1919, when he took 25 per cent.

In the latter part of the same year there were the fights with McGorty and Carpenter. The first Beckett won, and the purse was £1,700. Deducting the first £25, the half-share was £837 10s.

Mr. Mortimer also arranged the fight with Carpenter and the purse which Beckett obtained was £3,000, the plaintiff's share being £1,487. Not a penny of the money had he received.

QUESTION OF MOTIVE. During the whole time of the agreement, Mr. Mortimer had seen to the training of Beckett, and had incurred considerable expense to bring him up to the level which he had hoped he would attain.

"Plaintiff is a Southampton man," said counsel, "and his one great ambition was that Southampton should produce the Champion of England. One of the great attractions to him was that Beckett was a fellow townsman, and he succeeded in producing from Southampton a champion."

Mr. Maugham: His motive, in short, was purely philanthropic.

Mr. Clausen: I don't think I am departing from propriety if I say that his motives were not entirely those of pounds, shillings and pence.

His Lordship: We will assume that his motives were mixed.

A CONSULTATION. Counsel concluded by saying that Mr. Mortimer was the last man in the world to demand his pound of flesh, and would consider any reasonable proposition.

Plaintiff gave evidence as to how the agreement came to be signed, incidentally remarking that at that time Beckett could not read.

At this point there was a consultation between the parties, with the result stated above.

Mr. Maugham said that Beckett admitted considerable sums had been paid by Mr. Mortimer on his behalf and he had always been willing to repay them. On that footing the parties had come to a friendly settlement.

All proceedings would be stayed, there would be no order as to costs, and the sum paid was to be in complete satisfaction of all questions in dispute between the parties.

awarded against defendants. The leading one, as we have seen, had the land registered in his name in 1862. But on December 12 of that year he signed a paper (Ex. A2) declaring the property to "belong entirely to Chuping" and transferring to the latter any title possessed by the former.

This, coupled with the long period during which none of the defendants has asserted any claim to the lot seems conclusively to show that they are without interest therein. We feel justified in so finding and it is accordingly considered and decreed that defendants have no interest in said cadastral lot 204 (numbered 114 in the land registry American Consulate-General at Shanghai) and no ground for objecting to the registration thereof by plaintiff in the name of a trustee selected by it.

As the service was constructive there will be no award of costs.

FUTURE OF MOTOR
TRADE.

Lord Weir's Advice To Manufacturers.

Lord Weir was the principal speaker at the dinner in Glasgow in connection with the Scottish Motor Show, over which Mr. Thomas Shaw presided.

In proposing the toast of "The Scottish Motor Trade Association," Lord Weir said he did not think the motor trade had yet succeeded in making this industrial and engineering country a really great automobile producing country. They had not secured their rightful share of the world's market, nor were they substantially improving their position.

During the past twelve months the British public paid for imported motor cars, parts, and industrial vehicles, including duty, about £25,000,000, which was larger than the aggregate exports in the same time of such very important British industries as agricultural machinery, electrical machinery, boilers, and boilerhouse plant, machine tools, steam engines, locomotives, textile machinery, and railway plant.

AMERICAN INVASION. The United States alone exported to British Colonies and Dominions over 34,000 motor cars, presumably about £10,000,000 worth.

There thus appeared to be a potential market of about £35,000,000 of engineering product available to our enterprise, and capable of giving employment to our people.

The British motor car makers were doing enough designing, planning, and developing of motors to suffice for the productive facilities of the whole world. They were doing far too much engineering and too little standardisation of production.

Our drawing offices, planning departments, and tool rooms were out of balance with the operative end of production. Overlapping and duplication of expensive engineering for developing changes were enormous. This resulted in excessive costs, and it impaired the enterprise and confidence of capital.

Customers in the world market, and in our own domestic markets, were daily becoming poorer, and would remain so for a good many years.

Notwithstanding, they would require motor cars because they could not afford to do without them, but they demanded utility motor cars on a big scale.

FUTURE PROSPERITY.

Labour conditions might be an impediment to the production of utility cars at a relatively low cost but frankness and sincerity in these difficulties would overcome a great many of them.

The real difficulty was that of design. The obstacle to the British utility car lay in the lack of a design which would enable production possibilities to be realised. (Hear, hear.)

It was a case of technical experience, and they could do it if they concentrated on it. (Applause.) He suggested a policy of greater consolidation as of vital importance to the industry.

He founded his belief in the future prosperity of the industry on the general characteristics of the people, which had never failed to assert themselves more strongly than when things were blackest. (Applause.)

VON KLUCK'S LOST PLAN.

Discovery that Led to Marne Victory.

Lieutenant-Colonel Fagalde, C. M. G., D. S. O., Assistant Military Attache at the French Embassy in London, recently delivered a lecture, entitled "From Charleroi to the Marne."

Colonel Fagalde, who is known as one of the most brilliant of Staff officers, was so described by Lord Asquith, who introduced the lecturer.

The object of Colonel Fagalde was to give to his audience an exact idea of the events which took place in 1914, from the time of the concentration of the French armies up to the battle of the Marne, in that field of operations which was comprised between the Sambre and the Marne.

Colonel Fagalde was in a position to give the official view of the French Headquarters Staff of the events in question. He gave an account of the battle of Charleroi, which raged from August 21 to 23, and of the famous conference which took place at St. Quentin, at which Sir John French, General Joffre, General Lanrezac, General D'Amade, and members of the respective staffs, together with the liaison officers, took part.

He went on to describe the natural alarm created on the last day of August, when the Allies were informed by the staff of the Fifth Army, then stationed at Laon, that a mass of German cavalry had just received orders to deploy from the district north-west of Noyon on to the plains south of Laon, which movement had forced the Fifth Army to bend its line of march towards the south-east. The removal of French Headquarters to Craonne and to Jonchery immediately followed.

HISTORIC SATCHEL.

At the latter place, during the night of September 1 to 2, there was brought to the lecturer the satchel of a German staff officer of the Fifth Cavalry Division, who had been killed in his motor car by a French patrol. In this satchel, destined to become historic, was found a treasure of inestimable value—a plan giving full details of the march, which started the following day, of the whole of the First German Army under von Kluck.

The officer's satchel contained, in addition to food and articles of clothing, blood-stained documents which showed that he had been to von Kluck's head quarters for instructions, and was on his way back to the Fifth Cavalry Division when he was intercepted and killed by a French infantry patrol.

But tucked away under food and clothing was found a map, on which were traced all the movements to be undertaken after September 1, by von Kluck's Army. The position of every column was plainly marked, with their heads and rearguards, and the hours of departure and arrival at their destinations.

But what was of supreme importance was the discovery that von Kluck's plan, already known to the French Staff, of marching into the valley of the Oise, had been changed into one of a direct march on Paris, to begin on the morning of September 2.

Colonel (then Captain) Fagalde at once telephoned this information to G.H.Q., and immediately followed up his message by sending the map and other documents by motor car to the same destination. The telephone message and the map have been carefully preserved, and there can be little doubt that this discovery is mainly owing to the success which attended General Gallieni's manoeuvre of throwing a hitherto unknown and unsuspected army on von Kluck's flank, with the resultant victory of the Marne and the German retreat to the Aisne.

HISTORIC PICTURES OF THE ROYAL EXCHANGE.

The Latest Acquisition.

The Royal Exchange, beneath Lloyd's, is now a national picture gallery. Great episodes of history are represented by panels around the walls. Recently the Duke of York unveiled a picture presented by Lord Marshall, who was Lord Mayor of London in Peace year, 1918-19. The panel has been painted by Mr. Frank O. Salisbury, R.B.A., and is a brilliant piece of work. The subject is the scene on the steps of St. Paul's Cathedral when the King and Queen were present at the Thanksgiving Service on July 6th, 1919. As well as the members of the Royal Family, Lord Marshall, Sheriffs and officers, the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of London are prominent in the picture.

The work stands out in very rich tones between a war episode, the King and Queen visiting the battle fields of France, and a more subdued picture of ancient times representing the Master of the Vintners' Company entertaining a merry group of monarchs, including the Kings of England, France, Scotland, Denmark and Cyprus.

SHIPPING NEWS.

ELECTRICALLY-PROPELLED

VESSEL.

The Cuba, the first electricallydriven passenger vessel in the world, which will soon be placed in service, recently had a trial run, states Shipping and Engineering (Shanghai). The test showed that it could make a sustained speed of 17.28 knots.
 The machinery was reversed from full speed ahead to dead stop in two and a-half seconds, and to full speed astern in seven and a-half seconds. The vessel's electrical equipment consists primarily of a marine turbine generator, main propulsion motor,
 two exciters, control equipment,
 and a lighting set. The control equipment consists of a control panel mounting all the instruments and operating levers, which enable the engineer to operate the propulsion machinery both electrically and manually. The turbine drives the alternating current generator, which by means of three transmission wires supplies current to the synchronous motor. The Cuba is the rebuilt steamship Powhatan, which was sunk several years ago and lay at the bottom for nearly six months. It has been so completely overhauled that even the deck now betrays but few traces of the Powhatan.

A REAL CHAMPION.

Jim Higgins' Fine Victory.

Followers of boxing in Scotland, and a great many more whose championships are at stake, are very proud of the latest honour brought north of the Tweed by that determined little fighter, Jim Higgins, of Hamilton.

The great little Scot has emulated the feat of Jim Driscoll in making a Lonsdale Belt his own property within a twelve-month, although the Scot's performance constitutes a record, and is the greater in that he was unknown at headquarters a year ago. A victory over Jack Doyle paved the way to a championship meeting with Harold Jones. Higgins beat Jones, a Welsh boxer with a clever left hand, in the thirteenth round and then met Ledoux, but the hard-hitting little Frenchman was too experienced for the Scot, who was knocked out in the eleventh round. His boxing improved rapidly, and he beat another clever Welshman in Bill Eynon, convincingly on points.

HOW HE WON.

Of his latest match with Symonds, the London critics are unanimous that Higgins won,
 although one or two of them hint that they would have preferred
 the decision to go the other way.

One writer states:—"The referee was right. This good Plymouth boxer (Symonds) lost because he failed to stop the quick, sharp punches of his opponent as he went forward. Those sharp punches were the hits by which Higgins won, and, if Symonds had remembered that the punch which lands scores the points, he might have been still nearer than he was."

"When it was all over the spectators were so delighted with the display that Symonds had given that they hoped he had won. It was a pity that he had not, but the fact remains that Higgins, by constant use of his quick punches had scored enough points to win by a very small margin indeed."

Why pity Symonds? One has nothing but praise for a plucky and clever loser as Symonds was, but if the Scot was ahead on points, as the writer acknowledges, the pity would have been greater had Higgins been returned the loser.

Higgins had no easy task, however, and the bout was reckoned to be one of the closest seen in a bantam-weight championship.

Another critic writes:—"As a fight it was a first class grand slam, and throughout the whole 20 rounds there was not a dull moment of useless sparring. The lads simply waded into each other and dealt out as much punishment as they possibly could."

"The Devonian was not so enterprising as the Champion, and a lot of his work was discounted by his holding. Still, in praising the victor one must bestow equal praise upon a game and gallant loser, who stubbornly and stoutly contested every inch of the way."

There was apparently a good deal of holding on the part of Symonds, and he was cautioned during the ninth round, a warning which was overdue.
 Higgins hit hard and accurately, and he showed a fine restraint in his methods when he discovered the stuff the Plymouth lad was made of. He proved himself a real champion.

HONGKONG, MONDAY, MARCH 21, 1921.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

Reuter intimates that Mr. Bonar Law's resignation is regarded as accentuating the element of uncertainty in the political situation, so much so indeed as to threaten a crisis. There is considerable probability in the suggestion, which, on the other hand, may prove to be nothing but the conjecture of the moment. Quite lately the idea of an appeal to the country has been scouted in Ministerial quarters. This gives no very sure idea, however, for political crises often come to a head swiftly. Despite the disclaimers of an impending General Election, a "certain liveliness" has been perceptible in the Coalition electioneering organisations. To this, again, one need attach no special significance, as the preparations might be merely precautionary. At a time of flux the possibility of unexpected developments is increased, hence the need of readiness, though a dissolution form no part of Ministers' intentions. The resignation of the Leader of the House, however, whether partly attributable to divergence of views or due solely to a physical breakdown, introduces new circumstances into the situation, which is of added interest and importance because the independent Liberals have for some little time been exerting themselves to bring about a revival of their party.

The strength of the Coalition has become largely negative, though so far no very marked decline in power has been perceptible—that is to say, while the nation is not enamoured of the Coalition, it can see no adequate substitute, and Mr. Lloyd George's Cabinet continues to secure ample majorities in the House. There is no smoke without a fire, though, and considerable dissatisfaction has manifested itself among both wings of the Coalition, the Conservative section being less enthusiastic over the Welsh Wizard's leadership, while a section at least of the Liberal wing shows restiveness at the Conservative ascendancy. Still, there has been sufficient in common to hold the Coalition together with a noteworthy degree of firmness, if only because there has been no other substantial party to which the dissentients could attach themselves.

Under the inspiration of the Manchester School, the independent Liberals have formulated a new programme. The preliminary announcement of it does not exhibit any very striking features. From time to time there have been fleeting suggestions of another sort of coalition, namely, one between the independent Liberals and Labour, though this had the purpose of an Opposition in view. It is difficult to see how the two could coalesce in the formation of a Government, for, though the independent Liberals naturally seek to show themselves in as different colours as possible from the present Administration, it is manifest that fundamentally they are nearer to the Government than to Labour. Their difference from the Government is mainly one of degree, while they differ from Labour on principles, however much this may be disguised. For instance, the new programme adheres to private enterprise in contradistinction to the Labour plank of "the nationalisation of the means of production, distribution, and exchange." Then, while the independent Liberals advocate "generous treatment" for Ireland, they stop at Dominion government—as most people still do—while Labour has expressed its willingness to grant a Republic. As to the independent Liberals forming a Government by themselves, the situation would require a tremendous turn-over of votes, even if Mr. Asquith received a considerable accession of strength from his former colleagues. At the last General Election the free Liberals were almost eliminated. Regarding Labour, now the second strongest party in the State, though at a long interval, who can say that, with all its progress in the last fifteen years, it has developed an adequate constructive sense of a practicable kind, remembering too the country's depleted resources and already heavy taxation? The resignation of Mr. Bonar Law, with the possible or even probable weakening of the links between the two wings of the Coalition, might easily mean its break-up were the opposing forces stronger. It may mean a break-up as it is, or, at any rate, may hasten an appeal to the country, though there would be no great cause for surprise if in all the circumstances the Government succeeds in weathering the storm. As things stand, it is not easy to call up enthusiasm either way.

NOTES & COMMENTS.

Enterprise.

There can be few concerns in the Far East with such a splendid record of enterprise and progress as the Hongkong Hotel Company. Apart from its main establishment, which is generally conceded to be the best hotel in the Orient, it has led the way in opening up the southern side of the island as a seaside resort, until to-day the Repulse Bay is known far and wide. Even so, the Company intends to yet further develop this beautiful spot. Then there is the splendidly-equipped motor-car service which the Company now operates—an innovation which has more than justified itself. On top of all these evidences of the progressive spirit animating the management and the Directorate comes the announcement that the Company intends erecting in Kowloon a fine, modern hotel capable of accommodating five hundred guests, which is to cost in the neighbourhood of two million dollars. When we are told that this new venture is likely to surpass anything of its kind in the Far East, we may be sure that the Kowloon Hotel will be a really magnificent building. It will give an added importance to the settlement across the harbour, and in view of the fact that most of the large liners now using the port go alongside the wharves at Kowloon, the convenience of such a hotel on the mainland will be at once apparent. We congratulate the Company on its latest display of real enterprise, feeling sure that the public will appreciate what it is doing towards the development of the Colony.

Kowloon's Future.

We venture to think that the coming of this new hotel will mark the beginning of a new era for Kowloon. Step by step, the peninsula is growing in importance. In a few weeks' time it will have its own cinema theatre—a beginning which is no doubt destined to lead to other developments. The new hotel will be sure to cater to public enjoyment, apart from serving the needs of residents and tourists in the day; and we look to the day when Kowloon will have its own public hall and theatre as well. Then Kowloonites will only need to cross to Hongkong to work and do their shopping. But will they always need to do that? Are not these developments, of which we have been making mention, signposts pointing to the days ahead when Kowloon will become the business centre of the Colony? That is a dream which has many times been spoken of. It will take time to materialise, admittedly. But is it not coming? After all, with the present and future wharfage facilities and the promise of even more extensive godown accommodation, there is nothing more natural than that development should take place along these lines. We are soon to have motor-buses running in Kowloon. Then the trams will come. Then also new business premises will spring up, in which connection the big block to be erected by the Dairy Farm Company must not be overlooked. Yes; Kowloon is gradually coming by its own. And the Hongkong Hotel Company is far-seeing enough to gauge the situation.

A Disgrace to the Navy.

A feature of the Banvard season at the Theatre Royal has been the very large attendance of British blue jackets night after night. They have figured largely in the Dress Circle, and we have been glad to see them there enjoying a thoroughly bright and clean show. By far the great majority of them have comported themselves in a manner from which some of Hongkong's young dandies could very well learn a lesson. The average naval man nowadays is a gentleman in the truest sense of the term. But on Saturday night the good record of these men was spoiled by the unseemly behaviour of some three or four who were a disgrace to themselves and to the Service. Their behaviour during the show was above reproach, but during the interval they indulged in shouting and personal remarks that called for remonstrance from the police and made the situation distinctly uncomfortable for many of those present. There were other evidences of their misbehaviour, too. Not only did these particular individuals disgust civilians present; many of their own comrades were ashamed of them. One was heard to say, "It's the likes of these that give us a bad name." He spoke the truth.

DAY BY DAY.

NOTHING IS DIFFICULT; IT IS ONLY WE WHO ARE INDOLENT.—B. R. Haydon.

There was a clean bill of health in the Colony yesterday.

We hear that Lieut. F. W. Chuter, R.E., will shortly be leaving England for duty in Hongkong.

We learn that Mr. H. A. Sawyer has been selected for a permanent regular commission to the York and Lancaster Rgt. During the war Mr. Sawyer served as a Temporary Lieut. Commander in the Royal Naval Reserve.

The s.s. Devanha left Portsmouth for Hongkong on the 15th inst. She has on board the new Chief Engineer, Col. C.W. Davy, C.M.G., Lieut. Carro, R.A.O.C., and several married families. The other passengers are comprised of naval reliefs for various ships of the China Squadron.

Revenue and Police Officers yesterday effected the arrests of a number of arms runners on the arrival of the Nanking from America. The seizure of 4,600 rounds of ammunition was followed by the arrest of five Chinese passengers in whose luggage the arms were discovered. Two of them were fined $250 each, and the others were remanded.

A Chinese from Australia was at the Police Court to-day fined $200 for being in possession of arms. He pleaded ignorance of the regulations, and Mr. Lindsell requested that in view of the fact that a number of prisoners who had been brought before him for bringing arms into the Colony from Australia, had also given the same excuse, the Captain Superintendent of Police should cause notices showing the regulations to be posted on Australian vessels in the same way as is done on American vessels.

A house at No. 193 Queen's Road West was partially destroyed by a fire which originated from some unknown cause amongst a store of medicine belonging to the Kwong Wah Loong early on Sunday morning. The floor was gutted, and the verandah collapsed, narrowly missing the firemen who were in the street. Another outbreak occurred in the evening at Reclamation Street Yumati, but owing to the prompt attendance of the Brigade, it was quickly extinguished. The damage is stated to be in the neighbourhood of $50.

Mr. S. Komor arrived on Saturday by the s.s. Namsang, after a business trip to Calcutta and Delhi. He states that the general feeling in India is that when Lord Reading arrives, there will be closer co-operation between Indians and Europeans. Business is bad at present, this being due to the low exchange. It is quite likely that Lord Reading will deal with the currency question, and Indians expect an improvement soon after his arrival. There is acute hotel congestion in Calcutta and other large cities, residents having to pay Rs. 40 and more per day for a room. During the recent strike of the tramway conductors and the chauffeurs in Calcutta, Mr. Komor states that the ladies did wonderful work. Ladies who owned private cars drove gentlemen down to their offices in the morning, and this helped to break the strike, the tram conductors and chauffeurs returning to work after having been on strike for a few days.

RELEASE OF TEMPORARY OFFICERS.

It is anticipated that during the three months ending March 31, 2,000 officers holding temporary commissions will be released.

If these men cannot behave better than they did on Saturday, it were far better that they stayed away from the theatre altogether. Our reference is to the few, not the many, who will, we are sure, heartily endorse these few words of stricture. We did not notice any naval picket at the Theatre on Saturday. If there had been one, no doubt the disturbers of the evening's enjoyment would have been effectively dealt with.

CURRENT COIN.

(By "Mercator.")

The report of the Committee of the Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce for last year is a veritable embarras de richesses. The area covered is very wide, and the correspondence of the subjects that engaged the attention of the Chamber during the year very voluminous. Great prominence is given to the rice question, and the letters addressed to the Chamber, in most cases, were in nature of grievances. A perusal of the letters discloses the fact that the stand taken by the Committee of the Chamber vindicates all I have stated in the columns of this newspaper. Not only have my views been proved correct from the standpoint of the Chamber, but the information, especially on the rice question, that I had given was extremely accurate. An amusing letter is that from the Chinese Rice Guild addressed to the Chamber, in which the former administers a severe rebuke to "foreign" firms for their alleged failure to take delivery of rice contracted for. Some serious allegations are made in this letter, which inter alia states:—"Some of the foreign firms do not justify our confidence in them, and of late their failure in fulfilling their obligations have resulted in serious losses to many of our members. If the price of rice contracted for goes up, delivery will be taken immediately when the time is due and any slight delay will bring claim for compensation. Should the market decline they would persistently demand the cancellation of the contract or indefinite extension of the time of delivery, causing us all sorts of unbearable hardships."

The letter then goes on to show what causes this action is supposed to be. The Guild states:—"In their greediness to secure commission, they would generally contract to buy as soon as an order is received without first enquiring as to the financial standing of the sender of the order, and should the purchaser fail to take the shipment in case there is a heavy drop in price they would not be able to fulfil the contract. Sometimes in anticipation of receiving orders from abroad, they would contract to buy on 'spec', and they would not carry out their obligations if the market turns against them." There is very little vestige of truth in this. The allegation that foreign firms buy as soon as an order is received "without first enquiring about the financial standing of the sender of the order" is the purest moonshine, and rice dealers must know that such an allegation is untenable. It may be that a few non-British firms of recent growth have failed to fulfil their obligations. I know that a few of these mushroom firms had been buying rice on spec but these firms have already "gone under." If the Chinese rice dealers took the trouble of ascertaining the standing of the firms they had dealings with, they would have found it risky to deal with these mushroom concerns. But it must be stated that some Chinese rice dealers had been inducing the small firms to speculate and had been giving them every facility. They made pots of money when rice began to soar skywards, and no kick should be forthcoming because a couple or so mushroom firms failed to carry out their contracts.

It was to be expected that the Chamber of Commerce would have taken strong objection to the letter from the Chinese Rice Guild. Everyone will applaud the stand of the Chamber. In their reply to the scurrilous screed of the Guild, the Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce protested emphatically against a general accusation of such a nature, reflecting upon the good faith of foreign exporting firms as a whole. The Chamber added:—"If the Chinese Chamber of Commerce wish to support charges of this kind, specific instances should be cited and if the assistance of the Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce is invoked, application should be made while the questions are in dispute and not after settlement has been made, presumably by mutual consent. With reference to the paternal advice offered by the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce to foreign firms to satisfy themselves regarding the standing of their buyers before entering into contracts with them, the Chinese Chamber of Commerce be advised in turn to practise what they preach." A further broadside was delivered, the Hongkong Chamber of Commerce mentioning that there was one specific instance where a foreign firm suffered heavy loss through the failure of a Chinese firm to deliver rice on a rising market. People in glass houses, as the adage goes, should not throw stones. The Chinese dealer is not the immaculate and aggrieved person that the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce tries to make him out to be. Nuf said!

As I had previously stated in these notes, the Hongkong rice exporters declined to obey the Rice Association of California not to quote to Cuba, before the embargo came into force. Out of 54 firms, signatories to the agreement made between the Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce and the Rice Association of California, San Francisco, nine were prepared to refrain absolutely from offering or quoting rice to Cuba, 16 were prepared to refrain, conditionally, while 29 did not indicate their attitude. Thus the majority of the rice exporters reserved the right to deal with the situation as appeared to them best. When the embargo on the import of rice into Cuba is removed there is no doubt that we shall witness lot of direct selling to that country instead of through San Francisco intermediaries. Of course, the latter do not wish to see the Cuban buyers purchase rice direct from Hongkong or Saigon.

The news of the signing of the Trade Agreement between the Soviet Government of Russia and the Government of Great Britain sent up the price of roubles during the week. Where a hundred taels could buy 70,000 roubles, to-day that sum can only buy 25,000 roubles. This applies to Kereinsky roubles, the Romanoff roubles being more valuable. Nobody is parting with his roubles and report comes from Shanghai that there is much activity in rouble-gambling now. The trend of affairs in Russia does not prompt much optimism, and roubles notes must for a long time continue to be treated as so much waste paper. The whole of Russia is inundated with paper roubles, spurious and otherwise, issued by the Governments of the various provinces.

The number of native banks is growing at a rapid pace. Last week three more came into existence. This is, no doubt, prompted by the great success that has marked their activities last year. These native banks had been lending at very high rates of interest when the money market was very stringent, and thus experienced a very prosperous year. The three newcomers are the Tai Loi, the Keung Cheong and the Leong Shun, all reported to be of good standing. One of these banks is supported by a very large firm of rice dealers.

CATHOLIC MISSION.

Concluded yesterday.

The Lenten Mission which has been conducted by Father Lynch was concluded on Sunday. At the 9.30 Mass the visiting missionary preached to a large congregation at the Rosary Church, Kowloon.

Last evening, in the Catholic Cathedral, at the request of Bishop Pozzoni, Father Lynch asked offerings for the North China Famine Fund, and the plate collection in five minutes totalled $339.50. The scene at the Renewal of the Baptismal Vows was singularly impressive, all in the Cathedral, which was crowded in every part, holding lighted candles in their hands, whilst again at the Benediction the congregation held lighted candles aloft. Father Lynch preached his farewell sermon, in which he expressed his admiration at the faith and fervour of Catholics in Hongkong and Kowloon, saying he would tell them in Manila of the virility in religion of the Catholics of this Colony.

Father Lynch leaves by the Nanking to-morrow for his home at Malate, Manila.

ACCIDENT TO DERRICK.

While the s.s. Chungking was loading stone from Hunan for the new Hongkong and Shanghai Bank building in Shanghai out of a junk one of the shackles supporting the derrick carried away and the load weighing four tons fell on the junk sinking her. Three coolies on the steamer were badly injured, and were removed to the hospital. One, it is feared, will not recover.

TO-DAY'S MISCELLANY.

By a marriage celebrated at Barnard Castle (Durham) the other day the bridegroom became his father's brother-in-law, and by the same process he assumed the position of being uncle and nephew to himself. He had married the younger sister of his step-mother and the latter thereby became his sister-in-law!

An elephant, which will face a tiger or tigers, will run away from a mouse! Elephants dislike the tiny creature is due to their knowledge that they might seek shelter in their trunks. This actually happened in a German menagerie, and upset a whole troupe of ten elephants for days. Another well-known elephantine idiosyncrasy is their loathing of pigs, or even the smell of them.

Both by ancient and modern procedure in the House of Commons the Speaker's powers in the event of disorder are comprehensive and supreme. The most simple way is to call a member who disobeys the ruling of the Chair to order. If that is not effective the Speaker may direct him to withdraw. Should he be still recalcitrant the member is "named" and the leader of the House then makes a motion for his suspension. But in the event of grave general disorder, a phase which is happily rare, the Speaker is empowered to adjourn the Houses without question put or to suspend the sitting for a time named by him.

Let those who can draw comfort from the fact know that H. C. L. is no newer than many other plagues which poor humanity suffers from. In fact, the citizens of Rome, now tormented with leaps and bounds in prices, are trying to console themselves with the discovery that the city was bothered with profiteers 1,600 years ago. In the reign of Diocletian, who flourished in 300 A.D., the emperor was so disturbed by his subjects, who suffered from the H. C. L., that he fixed the prices of foodstuffs and drew a schedule for workmen's wages. To read his proclamation is to read the many long-winded documents which food controllers, mayors and other public functionaries have perpetrated in the past three or four years.

The condemning of the profiteer, "moved by a greed for profit which is out of all proportion to the real value of the goods he sells," and the imperial wish that his "fixed prices should be respected throughout the empire," have a familiar ring which makes glad the hearts of historians who want to render history popular. But relief, comfort and joy stop there. For it is enough to read a little further to discover that the emperor's laws and curses against newly rich and profiteers were as useless sixteen centuries ago as they are to-day, and, in despair, the Roman tyrant implores his "honest and patriotic subjects" to resort to the one and only remedy, boycott of high priced goods.

Oxford women students, in becoming entitled to the undergraduate's cap and gown, have assumed more obligations than perhaps they realised. These are set out in the Statute Book in medieval Latin. They may no longer, for instance, "carry arms, offensive or defensive, by day or night, in the precincts of the University, except a bow and arrows for their honest recreation. They must not fight duels, nor send nor receive challenges for them; they may not attend cockfights, nor go hawkling, nor drive their own equipage. They may never again employ troops of rope dancers, actors, or gladiators. They are forbidden to invade the deliberations of Oxford citizens, whether the City Council or the Assizes. Most drastic of all, they must always be habited "as becometh sedate and studious persons"; if anyone introduces new and unaccustomed modes of dress the Vice-Chancellors and Praefects "will hold deliberation among themselves and pronounce their opinions upon it." This should be interesting. And this is only a selection of the prohibitions which now hem in the alumae of Somerville and Lady Margaret. It will be no marvel if they sometimes look with envy at the continued freedom of their Cambridge sisters, and think with regret of the good old times when they drove their four-in-hands down the High

R. G. A. v. WILTSHIRES.

A large crowd assembled on the Club ground to witness the above teams play their match in the semi-final round of the Shield Competition and to see which team should claim a right to meet the Titania in the final on Saturday, March 26th. The game was expected to be a struggle for the honour, and it was assumed that the team scoring the first goal would win the match as there was so little between the teams prior to the commencement of the match. The weather was much against good football, but the play was fast throughout and the result was in doubt until the whistle sounded "no side." The R.G.A. were set to face the sun, which only appeared at intervals and a slight breeze was blowing across the field which assisted neither team. The artillery men were the first to attack but the Wiltshires soon transferred play to the R.G.A. end where Menham was given offside. Play opened very fast, the ball travelling up and down the field at a good pace. The Wiltshires forced a corner off Donovan and Amor sent up the field, where Henwood received and passed out to Watson who sent forward to Wilson, but the latter failed to accept, the ball going to touch. Menham received from the throw-in and swung the ball over to the left for Amor, but Walker cleared and sending McHugh away the latter centred and Henwood was pulled up for offside. Walker cleared a long shot from Lancaster and at the other end Best forced a corner off Trivett. Watson headed out from the flag kick, and the Wiltshires again got down and Amor sent in a long shot, Walker clearing, Henwood received on the half-way line and going in tricked Giles and beat Smith with a cross shot, thereby opening the score for the artillery after about 11 minutes' play.

From the centre-kick the Wiltshires went away with a determination to rub off the deficit but they found Walker a stumbling block and the R.G.A. were soon round the Wiltshires goal but the latter recovered and cleared. Donovan stopped a rush by the Wiltshires inside men and returned to Henwood who forced Giles to kick behind. Wiltshires cleared the corner kick and went down, Frampton clearing by kicking to touch. McHugh came down the R.G.A.'s left and sent in a good shot that Giles cleared. The Wiltshires then took the ball down and Walker dashed in and returned to midfield. Donovan sent McHugh away, but Trivett tackled and kicked to touch. Smith almost let his side down, for a shot from the R.G.A. right was stopped by him and he just cleared as McHugh came up. At the other end, Amor shot wide after a good run. From the goal kick, Keay sent forward to Watson and Giles cleared. Holloway managed to clear a high shot from Warren, but the same player received from the throw-out and sent in wide. Following midfield play, the Wiltshires forced a corner off Donovan and Amor taking the kick sent well forward and Henwood receiving travelled the full length of the field, beating all opposition, but Smith turned his shot round the post. The whistle immediately sounded for half-time, so the flag kick was not allowed. The teams crossed over with the Artillery leading by one goal to nil.

Resuming, the Wiltshires went away with a dash but Frampton cleared and McHugh's going down forced Trivett to kick to touch. Wilson received from the throw-in and sent over a long pass, Giles clearing. The play continued fast and the defence proved too good for the attack. From a breakaway by the R.G.A., Lancaster handled dangerously near the penalty area and the R.G.A. were awarded a free kick. Henwood sent in a mighty drive which Smith managed to stop, but the force of the kick pushed back his hands to his nose and made the blood flow. R.G.A. returned and Mc-

Smith to kick out. Hands against Davison near the touch line sent the Wiltshires well in where a scrimmage occurred in the R.G.A. goalmouth. Holloway eventually clearing. At the other end, Giles stopped a rush during which Bull was injured but continued. The Wiltshires worked hard for the equaliser but the R.G.A. kept them out. The R.G.A. got down and Wilson beat Giles and went in with only the goal to beat, but failed to shoot before Trivett cleared. Best returned and skimmed the bar with a fast shot. Watson sent in a shot for Smith to catch and throw away. The Wiltshires resumed the offensive and kept the R.G.A. at home and Holloway saved shots from all angles. Time arrived with the half-time score unaltered, and the R.G.A. left the field winners of a fast game by one goal to love. Mr. Leaf was the referee and Messrs. J. McCubbin (Club) and J. Clark (Police) were the linesmen.

The game was evenly contested throughout and although only one goal was scored, several chances went begging.

The teams turned out as follows:

R. G. A.—Holloway; Walker and Frampton; Keay, Donovan and Dawson; Wilson, Watson, Henwood, Best and McHugh. Wiltshires.—Smith; Giles and Trivett; Brown, Lancaster and Bull; Warren, Evans, Menham, Swanborough and Amor.

TITANIA v. KOWLOON.

These teams met on the Navy "A" ground before a large number of sailors, and although the Navy team held the upper hand throughout, the game was very fast and the Kowloon men showed dash at times. Five minutes from the start, Wheeler handled in the penalty area and Hendry taking the kick beat Crocker with a high shot and opened the score for the navy team. Kowloon went down from the centre kick and Mason, drawing the defence, went in and beat Yeoman, thereby making the scores level. This surprised the Titania, who again got down and Garside sending over from the right wing, Piles beat Crocker and gave the sailors the lead. Hendry ran through and scored before half-time when the sailors were leading by three goals to one.

Resuming, the sailors took charge of the game and after a short bombardment of the Kowloon goal, Piles sent in a hard shot that struck the inside of the upright and rebounded into the net. From the centre-kick, Kowloon paid a flying visit to the sailors' goal but Maplesden returned and a bombardment of the Kowloon goal ended in Piles getting the ball past Crocker and the game ended in a win for the Titania by five goals to one. Mr. Hollands was the referee.

POLICE v. S.C.A.

Swan turned out for the Police in their match with the S.C.A. and played one of his old-time games. Pearson, R.E., also assisted the Police on this occasion. The S.C.A. were early attacking and forced a corner from which McWalters cleared and Pearson gave to Robertson who missed an easy chance of opening the score for the Police. Givie and take play followed, with the S.C.A. having the better of the exchanges, but Swan was safe in goal. Hillier scored for the Police, who won the match by one goal to nil. Mr. Masters was in charge of the game.

ST. JOSEPH'S v. UNITED.

Omar was absent from the College side, while Laing was also absent from the United. Early in the game the United failed to take advantage of a penalty kick awarded them against Ismail for bringing Blake down when a goal seemed certain. Simmons took the kick and struck the crossbar with a hard shot, the ball rebounding to Ismail who cleared. Ogley scored twice for the College before the interval. Within ten minutes from time the United were still two goals down but so well did they rally that they wiped off the arrears and time only saved St. Joseph's from defeat. Blake scored the two goals for the United.

CARLISLE v. CLUB RESERVES.

This match took place on the Club ground and ended in a win for the sailors by two goals to nil. The Club should have scored early in the game, for Ogilvie placed well from a corner kick and Jack should have turned the ball into the net. Later, Sherry should have scored for the Club but failed from close range. The Carlisle scored one goal in each half and deserved their win.

S.C.A. RESERVES v. KOWLOON

RESERVE.

Playing on the Navy "B" ground the Chinese gained the upper hand in this match and won by a goal to nil.

BILLIARDS.

The Championship Final.

Much interest was taken on Saturday, at the V.R.C., in the final of the Open Billiard Championship, when two brothers, A. J. Osmund and L. A. Osmund, contested for the right to meet P. Yvanovich in the challenge round, Mr. W. Farmer, of Canton, was the referee. The result was a win for A. J. Osmund by 1,000 to 774.

The winner made an excellent opening, registering a break of 60, which was the highest for the evening. Before the adjournment, he had made a 40 and two of more than 30, his opponent's biggest effort being 46. At the interval A. J. Osmund led by 519 to 369.

In the latter part of the evening, the winner continued to score steadily. He made a 58 (48 off the red) and two breaks of over 40, whilst his brother's best efforts were a 43 and two of over 30. On the run of play, the winner thoroughly deserved his victory, being better in most departments of the game.
